PANEL DISCUSSION

Theme: “Strategic Deployment of Institutional Assets to Foster Internationalization of Higher Education”

The internationalization of higher education has undergone different phases in the past years, though there have been challenges to full implementation of policies, however, the outcomes have been more than encouraging within the global education community. The evidence of the internationalization mechanism’s methodological impacts coupled with the incessant growth of higher education around the world, have motivated the experts in the education community to continue investing resources towards the full realization of a global self-sustaining higher education system.

This panel session will focus on different strategies to effectively deploy institutional assets for a burgeoning society, and a few of the topics are enumerated below:

- Development of asset deployment strategies to further promote the internationalization of higher education globally.
- Allocation and Distribution of resources to enhance the existing global approach of internalizing higher education.
- Proactive engagement between education agencies and international organizations with similar priorities to achieve the mission of ensuring a vibrant human society.
